{SLIDE 1}

If you have high prescription drug costs, a new program under Medicare Part D may benefit you. Here's what you need to know.

{SLIDE 2}

Starting in 2025, you won't pay more than $2,000 out-of-pocket for covered Part D prescription drugs.

But if you take high-cost Part D drugs, you might reach the spending cap and pay the full $2,000 early in the year.

This is where the new Medicare Prescription Payment Plan might benefit you. If you sign up for the program, you will be able to spread your out-of-pocket costs across the remainder of the calendar year.

{SLIDE 3}

Signing up for the program means you won't pay for your Part D prescription drugs at the pharmacy, or when they're shipped.

Instead, your plan will send you a bill each month separate from your plan premium bill.

{SLIDE 4}

Your monthly bill is based on the Part D prescription drugs filled that month, plus your previous month's balance, divided by the number of months left in the plan year. This amount may change monthly.

Participation is optional, and there are no fees to sign up.

Keep in mind, this payment option might help you manage your expenses, but it won't save you money or lower your drug costs. AND it's not a good choice for everyone.

{SLIDE 5}

If you're likely to reach the $2,000 cap early in the year, AND you sign up early, before you fill many prescriptions, it might benefit you.

{SLIDE 5}

It made sense for John. John takes a high-cost prescription drug for his chronic heart condition. If he begins filling his prescription in January, he'll reach the annual $2,000 out-of-pocket limit in April, meaning John won't pay anything for his covered drugs for the remainder of the year..

{SLIDE 7}

This payment plan might not be a good choice for you if:

- Your out-of-pocket prescription costs are less than $2,000 per year,
- Your drug costs are similar each month,
- You sign up later in the plan year,
- You get Extra Help from Medicare,
- You're enrolled in a Dual-Eligible Special Needs Plan or other program, like Medicaid, that assists with your drug costs, or
- You don't want to change how you pay for your prescriptions.

Laura decided the program didn't make sense for her.

She mostly takes lower cost generic drugs, and her monthly prescription costs range from $100 to $160. Even with a few unplanned prescriptions, Laura won't reach the $2,000 out-of-pocket limit.

So, this program won't benefit her. In fact, her monthly payments would increase as she continues to pick up prescriptions with fewer months left in the year.

Remember, this payment option might not be the best choice for you, depending on your Part D drug costs.
